CHAPLIN BATTLES WIFE CHARLES CHAPLIN SIDNEY CHAPLIN

Charlie Chaplin prepares to continue his battle in court to keep his sons, Charles and Sidney, from entering the movies. His mother, Lita Grey Chaplin, signed a contract to appear with the boys. Chaplin insists Mrs. Chaplin does not need money as $1000 a month is paid her. He believes the entrance of his sons into the movies will interfere with their development. He has obtained a temporary court order barring them from films. (International News Photos.)

Farmers Blockade All Roads in Strike Zone; Ranks Grow

Council Bluffs, Ia., Aug. 26 (AP)—Farmers' highways leading into striking farmers' headquarters at Council Bluffs apparently in full control of traffic. Capitalizing on the demands of about 1000 of the striking farmers, who threatened to storm the jail and release the 50 prisoners if they were not freed, Sheriff P. A. Lamm withdrew his deputies and made an attempt during the night to keep the highways free of blockades along the open.

DEFIANT TRUCK DRIVER STANDS OFF FARM STRIKERS

Lynn Man Dropped Because of False Signatures; Big-ney Loses Fight

The name of Frank J. Harney of Lynn, only opponent of Gov. Ely for the Democratic nomination for governor, was dropped today by the ballot law commission, following a State House hearing at which signatures on Harney's papers were characterized as "palpable forgeries."

At the same time the Commission announced that Daniel H. Coakley of Brighton and Dennis P. Reardon would be allowed to run as primary candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor's Council in the fourth district. Coakley's entry and that of Reardon had been protested by former Senator Robert F. Ripley on the ground that they are not residents of the district.

T. F. KILPATRICK
The name of Thomas F. Kiley, candidate against James J. Kiley for representative from Roxbury, suffered the same fate as that of Harney and was ordered stricken from the ballot because many persons denied signatures purporting to be theirs.

At the hearing against Harney, after a protest of his papers by Rep. John P. Higgins of Boston, Gov. Ely's representative, 12 residents of Suffolk county whose names appeared on the Harney papers denied that they had signed. This brought the Suffolk county signatures remaining down to the required 1000 accredited signatures.

MANY FORGERIES CHARGED
Rep. Higgins also produced affidavits from 88 residents of Essex county declaring that their purported signatures on the Harney papers were not written by him. "On this list," declared Higgins, "are clergymen, judges and other reputable people, and I am sure that these signatures are palpable forgeries."

The man who investigated this case alleges that 88 of those who signed in Essex County insisted that they had signed in fear that they might be involved in court action. "We made an effort to cover Middlesex county but we have plenty of evidence to show forgeries in those papers, also. I am, gentlemen, that a non-paying system is rather weak when a condition like this prevails."

HARNEY'S DEFENSE
Harney declared in reply that he and his agents obtained the signatures in the usual manner. "I cannot vouch for them any more than any other candidate can vouch for his," he said. "I am ready to abide by whatever the State holds for me." "I will close by saying that when the decision is made, I will still be a fighting Democrat for Roosevelt and Garner."

Mrs. Ruth Fales Stone Baker, 70, of Worcester, and Judson Pendleton, 70, of Exeland, Wis., who on Monday will wed at Leicester. He wooed her by mail after it appeared her cap had been set for James Penner, 51, who advertised for his fifth wife. "Was a case of youth winning again—70 vanquishing 51—in a race for a woman's love."

DEMOCRATS TO CUPID BY MAIL LIST 325,000 CUTS OUT RIVAL

The Democratic City Committee will open headquarters in Hotel Innes tomorrow and from that place will direct an intensive campaign to bring the total number of registered voters in this city up to 325,000, an increase of 25,000 over the 1928 registration figures.

Funds to defray cost of conducting a drive were today turned over to Daniel J. Chapman, chairman of the city committee, by Joseph A. Maynard, chairman of the state committee, and are part of the campaign committee of Mayor Curley. Mayor Curley stated that if the goal of 325,000 is reached, every Democrat on the ticket will be kept on office.

As a result of their meeting, Pendleton returned to Wisconsin, packed his three trunks and came to the room occupied by Edward Morse, a stranger.

Mrs. Baker charged that she and a friend, Sally Kamper, had been enticed to the hotel under the impression they were going to a dance after having met a young man.

She charged Pendleton had kidnapped her down five times and denied she had been drinking. She was subjected to a lengthy cross-examination by Alvin Michael Garthia, representing Pauline.

Mrs. Rees, who lives in P. O. South Boston, was married last November. She admitted drinking at home but said: "I never got tight with strange men."

7 in Family Enter Religious Work

Lawrence, Aug. 26—Irene LaMontagne of Holy at, who entered the convent of the Sisters of the Holy Union at Fall River, is the seventh member of her family to enter religious life. Three of her sisters are members of the same order, two others are nuns in the Marist Order and a brother, Emil, is studying to become a Marist Father.

FOILED PLOT IS BEING PROBED BY P. O. MEN

Intended Victims Escape When Infernal Machine Fails to Explode in Home

An attempt on the lives of a Lynn family by means of a heavily-loaded infernal machine that failed to go off, was revealed today as post-office inspectors investigated a death threat letter sent to the family at 7 Hobson st.

The family, Mr. and Mrs. James F. McEntee and their three children, occupy the same house where two former occupants received similar death threats, resulting in their moving in terror.

In the package, which had been shaken up considerably and put out of adjustment while in the mails, was a cunningly-contrived infernal machine with gunpowder packed in cartridge-like cells, and the cells connected so that the powder would explode simultaneously when the parcel was opened.

Postoffice inspectors admit records of the infernal machine by the family and said that through this package and the threatening letter they have picked up a clue in East Boston which may result soon in calling in the Boston police. Six death threat letters were received by Frank Healy and the family who formerly occupied the same house.

SEARLES AND WIFE TO PART

West Palm Beach, Aug. 26—Mrs. Mahel Margaret Searles, of West Palm Beach, has filed suit for divorce against Victor A. Searles, playboy heir to the fortune of Edward F. Searles of Methuen, Mass. Mr. Searles, the wife's attorney, said it was of separate maintenance brought against Searles last year would be dismissed.

He said a financial settlement has been arranged and that Searles has agreed to the divorce. Mrs. Searles seeks custody of their five-year-old daughter, Betty Joan Searles, who is living with her. The Searles were married at Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in 1924.

The divorce suit filed against Searles, the latest development in his mad adventures since he contracted the will of his late uncle, Edward F. Searles of Methuen, and received a $250,000 settlement instead of a $250,000 bequest.

He was a Boston artist when his uncle died. Shortly after he secured the money from his uncle's estate, he was involved in a scandal, received a substantial settlement and a divorce.

He was then "shaken down" by a Boston extortion ring for $65,000 and was the central figure of a legal scandal and unseemly episode that attracted nationwide attention.

LOSES FIGHT WITH DEATH

DYING FATHER TO SEE SON MRS. MCCORMICK LIES IN STATE

Chicago, Aug. 26 (AP)—The body of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick lay in state today in the state's gray stone mansion at 1000 Lake Shore Drive, where she ruled so long over the society realm of Chicago.

Closed two months ago when the daughter of John D. Rockefeller, Sr., forsook her residence to spend her last days in a Drake hotel suite, the home was reopened temporarily at least.

It was indicated that funeral plans would not await the arrival of relatives from California, and word had not come as to the plans of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., or his father.

Conjectures as to the estate of Mrs. McCormick's fortune probably will not be quelled until the settlement of her estate in probate court. Rumor had indicated the fortune, once given as $40,000,000, had shrunk to a fraction of that sum through deflation of her real estate property and securities, but the belief was general that a comfortable income from trusts remained.

BUSINESS IS ON UPGRADE

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—Except for the heavy industries which remain generally dull, the business trend continued distinctly upward in the past week, the weekly mercantile review said today.

Bradstreet said the most favorable reports came from the wholesale and light manufacturing lines, where the definitely better sentiment of the last weeks had been translated into real activity. Retail trade, continued this review, also appears to be gaining slightly.

"With the vacation period ending and the summer season drawing to a close," said Dun's, "the beginning of the last few months of the year is expected to give further impetus to trade improvement."

BLONDE HIT-RUN DRIVER HELD IN $200 BAIL

Charged with being the hit-and-run driver who sped away after striking an automobile yesterday at Broadway and Windsor st., Cambridge, Miss Leontine Stockbridge, beautiful 25-year-old blonde of Roslindale, was arraigned in East Cambridge court today.

When the case was continued by agreement to Sept. 2, she was held in $200 bail, personal recognizance. Police Sgt. John R. King telling the court he was sure she would appear without putting up an actual bond.

Her appearance at Brattle st. police station last night ended an all-day search on foot part of the police. ON WAY TO WORK

"I was on my way to work at a Boston store when the accident happened," the police said she explained. "The other car was coming out of Windsor st. and while I think the car I was driving collided with it, I didn't think it was serious and so I didn't stop. I have been in automobiles before which were hit and the drivers of these cars didn't stop, so I didn't believe it was necessary."

Marshall Rounds, 45, of Whitner rd., Needham, and his daughter, Dorothy, 22, were the occupants of the automobile which is alleged to have been struck by the motorist. When Sgt. John R. King, to whom she made the report, pointed out to her that several motorists claimed her along Broadway, she expressed amazement. The young woman said she thought she was all hurrying to work like herself, and when they tried to "revolve" she she stepped away from them.

FRANCE SPURNS U. S. TREATY

Paris, Aug. 26 (AP)—France, declining to accede to the wishes of the United States, is willing to make only a short-term commercial treaty, granting most-favored-nation treatment, it developed at renewal of Franco-American negotiations today.

The United States asked a durable treaty, and offered compensatory legislation to protect French titles and copyrights, as well as a more liberal interpretation of the pharmaceutical act to let in more French medicines.

The concessions were offered by William S. Howell, Jr., first secretary of the American embassy, and Fayette W. Allport, commercial attaché.

Officers Share in Lord Inceape's Will

London, Aug. 26 (AP)—Legacies of more than $200,000 were bequeathed by Lord Inceape to about 600 officers of the Peninsular & Oriental and British India Steam Navigation Lines, it was learned today.

NO FEE IN GIRL TRAMP ARREST

Denial that she received any witness fees or transportation expenses in connection with the case against Dorothy Adkins, mysterious girl who was jailed for a 10-cent theft, was made today by Mary Flynn, the store detective who arrested the girl.

Miss Flynn declared she did not arrest Dorothy because of her admitted theft of a 10-cent roll of adhesive tape with which to bind her sore feet, but she felt compelled to turn the girl over to police after finding a revolver on her. The revolver was found later to be broken and useless.

BARES POLICE BOAST IN 3D DEGREE DEATH

Minneapolis, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—Lawyers defending five policemen in Nassau county's third degree killing fought today to show their clients were guileless of beating the life out of Hyman Stark, youthful prisoner accused of striking a robbery.

An attack on prosecution testimony given by Asst. Dist. Atty. Martin W. Littleton, Jr., featured the trial. Littleton said Deputy Chief Frank J. Tappan, one of the five accused, came out of the police chamber where Stark was held and remarked:

"That's the toughest — I ever saw. I put one foot on his neck and the other on his belly and rocked back and forth, and it didn't faze him."

"Did he say whom he was talking about?" demanded Defense Attorney Charles R. Weeks.

"No," Littleton said. "Did he say when or where it had taken place?"

"No," he said. "It is in a rather facetious tone, didn't he?"

"Yes."

"And you attached no importance to it at the time."

"No, I didn't know what it meant."

Questioned closely by another defense lawyer, Littleton said he had made no reference to the alleged statement by Tappan until his third appearance in the John Doe inquiry which preceded the trial. It came back to his mind, he said, when he heard statements regarding injuries to Stark's head, and saw Tappan limping as the result of a turned ankle.

MOOSE TO HOLD BIG PARADE

Cleveland, Aug. 26 (AP)—More than 8000 members of the Loyal Order of Moose in gala attire, 25 bands, 25 floats, and 250000 people will take part in a mile-long parade tonight, the most spectacular event of the order's international convention.

Local and state patriotic societies will join in the march to observe the Washington bicentennial. There will be 250 daughters of the American Revolution appearing in costume to resemble a "human flag."

The women's auxiliary of the Grand Army of the Republic will present a float depicting the signing of the Declaration of Independence. Famous aviators and 250 employees of the National Air Races will appear in uniform.

Next year's convention will be held in London, England, the supreme council decided yesterday.

The treasury report, also made yesterday, disclosed the order in good financial condition with a membership gain of 81,345 during the past year.

NEW LIGHT TAX IS PROTESTED

Pawtucket, R. I., Aug. 26 (AP)—Contending the new revenue tax on electricity is being improperly assessed by power companies, Rep. Francis B. Condon today forwarded several complaints to Secretary of the Treasury Mills and asked a ruling.

Condon said the 3 per cent tax was being assessed on the $1 minimum charge made by the companies in instances where the charge for actual consumption of electrical energy was below that figure. Condon referred to assessment of the 3 per cent tax on the $1 minimum charge in one instance in which the meter reading showed no electrical energy had been used.

Condon asked Mills to determine if the tax collected in such cases was being turned over to the government.

Judge Settles Row by 'Slap-for-a-Slap'

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—A slap-for-slap drama unfolded in Broadway's night court. Lala Gennove denied slapping Frank Brown, 8.

"If he slapped you, show me how he did it," said Magistrate Greenbaum.

Frank implanted a healthy smack on Gennove's face.

"Now," said the magistrate, "I guess you're even. Frank, and I'll suspend sentence."

Early Closing Hits Tiajuana Saloons

Tijuana, Mexico, Aug. 26 (AP)—An edict to close saloons at 11:30 p. m. caused riotous in this town, where many resorts throw the doors away years ago. One proprietor ordered the janitor to lock up.

"I'll have to go home after the door," said the brewer's man. "I've been using it for years on my children's sleep."

12,000 Go on Strike

PRESIDENTIAL RACE LINES DEFINED

Washington, Aug. 28 (AP)—Increasing definiteness was given the presidential campaign by events of the week now concluding.

Of the two leading candidates, Gov. Roosevelt, alone engaged in any direct campaigning, making last night a personal appeal for campaign funds to a nation-wide radio audience.

His brief talk was marked by such assertions as that the Democratic party is "not for sale," that it has "no favorite group upon which it can call for large sums under promise or privilege or immunity, express or implied," and "no grounds to collect donations which are to be returned manifold through tariff increases."

On the Republican side Secretary Hurley's challenge in Rhode Island to the Roosevelt speech at Columbus, O., a week ago loomed as the most direct administration answer yet voiced to the criticism of the Hoover policy by the Democratic candidate.

WALKER CASE HIGH LIGHT

Gov. Roosevelt furnished another Democratic high light in denying the idea of Mayor Walker of New York City to inject the question of partisan political motives into the hearing before him or the fitness of Walker to retain his office.

Feminine notables like former Gov. Nellie Taylor Ross of Wyoming, Democrat, and Mrs. Wm. Gann, sister and official hostess of Vice-President Curtis, Republican, joined in mobilization for the Maine State campaign that some party leaders already regard as a critical barometer in presidential election.

SMITH'S SILENCE

In New York former Gov. Alfred E. Smith was named a delegate to the Democratic national convention in October despite his present aloofness from politics and newly assumed editorial duties.

SEN. DAVIS MUM ON RESIGNATION

Harrisburg, Pa., Aug. 28 (AP)—Gov. Fincher's demand that Senator James J. Davis be asked to resign his candidacy for reelection because of his indictment by a Federal jury for participation in an alleged national lottery will remain unanswered for at least a week.

The resignation, sought in a letter to State Chairman Martin, demanded that the Republican state organization ask the senator to withdraw as a candidate.

Davis said last night in Cleveland where he is attending a convention of the League of Women Voters, of which he is director-general, he would make no statement until next week. Martin could not be reached for comment.

Fincher's letter said: "The whole country is aroused against racketeering in all its forms. Davis stands indicted as a lottery racketeer."

"Ever since he first became a candidate for the Senate, and even before that, James J. Davis, junior Senator from Pennsylvania, has been under suspicion."

Autoist Fined for Driving 4 in a Seat

New Bedford, Aug. 28—Seventeen summer residents of nearby sections paid fines that totaled $200 today in district court as the result of a state police drive on speeding and other violations on state highways. One of the defendants was fined $20 for allowing four persons to ride in a small coupe.

Movie Company Puts 1500 Men to Work

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 28 (AP)—Officials of the Fox Film Corporation announced today that its force of carpenters, skilled artisans and others needed in the erection of studio sets has been tripled in the last six weeks. Fifteen hundred men have been added to the payroll.

28 Men Adrift on Ice Floe Rescued

Point Barrow, Alaska, Aug. 28 (AP)—Carried 30 miles from an Arctic ice floe, a party of 28 Eskimo men was safely ashore today after spending four days on the ice pack, and on the abandoned fur trader, the Bayliner.

WIRES HOLD OFF DEATH

Nathan Levine, truck driver, of Hansborough st., Dorchester, probably owes his life to the telephone wires which kept a pole, which snapped off at the base, from crushing him. Levine was parked at Quincy and Massena st., Roxbury, when the pole fell, puncturing a hole in the roof of the truck. The wires kept the pole from falling all the way. (Staff photo.)

$950 Cow, $20 Pen 'Economy' Down in Jersey

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 26 (INS)—In a spirited demand for further saving in operating the state government, Gov. A. Harry Moore today lifted a law recently purchased by various departments which he considers do not fall in the realm of economy.

Some of them follow:

- One fountain pen $20
- One box of cigars 37
- One Guernsey cow $950
- Salted almonds $1 a pound
- Four card tables $24 each
- One ice cream freezer $60

Nathan Levine of Hansborough st., Dorchester, driver of the truck, started his machine and attempted to drive out of danger. The broken pole punctured the roof of the truck.

Here's the secret

You will understand the importance of ultra-violet rays when you realize that plants, flowers, trees and grain must have sunshine in order to grow. They must have ultra-violet rays furnished by the sun. But even nature is incomplete. Some years crops are good... other years they are starved for the ultra-violet rays nature has failed to provide for them.

Schlitz completes nature's job. Schlitz adds days of sunshine to all Schlitz Malt Syrup by an exclusive ULTRA-VIOLET RAY PROCESS. That's the secret. It's "Vitalized". It's more mellow... more perfect... and absolutely pure. It's the only malt syrup that's really finished.

Try it... You'll do much better with

COOLIDGE AND ASSURED G. O. P. LEADERS

New York, Aug. 28 (AP)—John Q. Tilson, director of the Eastern Republican speakers bureau, today telegraphed campaign headquarters here that former President Calvin Coolidge is willing to do anything in his power to insure the success of the Republican campaign, but whether he will make any speeches is still undetermined.

Tilson said he lunched with the former President yesterday at Plymouth, Vt.

"Former President Coolidge," the message said, "has expressed a willingness to do whatever he can to insure the success of the Republican campaign. The question of just how Mr. Coolidge can best help is yet to be determined. Mr. Coolidge, however, made it clear he was deeply interested in the success of the ticket."

Tilson, with his daughter, Catherine, motored from his home at Lake Sunapee, N. H., to the Coolidge home for the luncheon, and then returned to Lake Sunapee, where he is spending the week-end.

MA FERGUSON IN TEXAS PRIMARY

Dallas, Tex., Aug. 26 (AP)—Texas Democrats will choose a gubernatorial nominee tomorrow in a run-off primary between Gov. Ross S. Sterling and Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson, former chief executive and wife of James E. Ferguson, impeached as governor in 1917.

Democratic nomination is tantamount to election.

Mrs. Ferguson received 42 per cent of the nearly one million votes cast in the first primary. Gov. Sterling was favored by 23 per cent of the electorate.

It was the fourth time since 1924 Mrs. Ferguson had asked the nomination. The first time she was elected on a platform that sought "vindication of the family name."

WOMEN GIVEN CREDIT IN WAR ON DRY LAW

By LOUIS SCHOLD

New York, Aug. 26—Professional politicians (wet and dry) give the women of the country most of the credit for influencing both Republican and Democratic parties to declare war on the Eighteenth Amendment and Volstead act.

This concession is the outstanding feature of comments of party leaders who daily visit New York headquarters of their respective organizations to report on political conditions in their state.

Most of these leaders agree that if women generally had not become convinced of the failure of prohibition, the movement to discard it would have failed.

They say that as long as women responded sympathetically to propaganda of the Anti-Saloon League and other dry organizations, the vote was blocked at every turn.

FINANCES CUT OFF

A vast preponderance of support financial and sentimental, that the dry organizations held came from women.

Reasons advanced by western Republican leaders to explain the conversion of women to the wet end of the argument include:

Housewives and other female dependents now believe there is just as much drinking among men, and women too—as there was before prohibition.

Women who hailed prohibition as a domestic blessing and noble experiment have been compelled to pay a heavier toll in the domestic budget from the weekly pay envelopes than before.

FEAR POISON LIQUOR

Then there are the physical consequences of using deleterious and poisonous liquor, bringing widespread tragedy and distress.

In this respect the smaller communities—and not the larger centers—have paid the heaviest toll.

A Democratic leader from the South said the women in his section who had valiantly supported prohibition for many years had withdrawn their support from the Anti-Saloon League and other professional dry organizations.

In Politics Gossip About People You Know

SWEAR BY, NOT AT GARNER

Congressman John W. McCormack of South Boston, paying his respects to Governor Ely at the State House, stopped in the antechamber long enough to tell the boys a few things about "Jack" Garner, Speaker of the National House and candidate for Democratic nomination for vice-president.

"Every Democratic member of the House from the North," the Congressman declared, "avows by Speaker Garner. He is one of the most liberal forces in the public life of America today."

HITLER HIDING; BREAKDOWN RUMORED

Berlin, Aug. 26 (AP)—Adolph Hitler had disappeared from his accustomed haunts today and a rumor spread that he had been taken to a sanitarium after a nervous collapse.

Two newspapers carried the story and Hitler's associates in the National Socialist party spent most of the morning describing the rumor as utter nonsense.

"The wish is father to the thought," said Maj. Hans Wehstedt, head of the Nazi publicity office in Berlin. "Hitler never felt better in his life. He has gone to the mountains above Berchtesgaden."

The party headquarters in Munich called the story of his breakdown an "absolute lie." Ernst Hanfstaengl, the publicity chief there, said Hitler had gone on a long fishing trip.

SHOTS HALT 2 BOYS IN CHASE OF STOLEN CAR

Three shots were fired by police in a five-mile chase through Roxbury and Chelsea today that ended in the arrest of two youths after a stolen car rammed a house in Woburn st. Chelsea.

The two arrested, Angelo Rossetti and Salvatore Rizzo, both 19, and both of East Boston, were charged with unlawful use of the car. The chase started near Revere Beach, where Patrolman John H. Ryan of the Metropolitan police signalled the driver of the stolen car to stop.

The machine sped ahead instead and Rizzo took up the chase that led to the Revere overpass, Broadway, Fifth and Walnut sts. Chelsea. The driver failed to make a turn into a side street and the machine ploughed into the vestibule of 180 Walnut st.

A few minutes later, Patrolman James Martin of the Chelsea police, saw Rossetti and Rizzo running toward the bridge that leads to East Boston. He commandeered a taxicab and captured them. Police said they admitted they were the two who fired the shots. Rizzo had filed the stolen machine. The latter had been stolen in East Boston, police said.

MINE STRIKERS GIVE UP FIGHT; LOSE ALL

Benton, Ill., Aug. 26 (INS)—Serenity settled upon a Franklin County today as its citizens resumed their usual occupations, slated over their victory in repelling the invading mine strikers' expeditionary force.

Every mine in the county, which is the heart of the Illinois coal mining section, that ordinarily operates was being worked today.

The reign of terror which culminated in the battle of the little muddy river Wednesday night, when an invading horde of 15,000 striking protesters against the 40 per cent wage scale were turned back, was ended.

Reinstated, Aug. 26 (INS)—A position of Robert McAlpine, prominent sportsman, for reinstatement in the exclusive Sea View Social Club was dismissed today in appellate court. McAlpine carried his petition into that court after a lower court ruled "no action in law" on McAlpine's charges he had been illegally dropped from membership.

Heckscher Urges More Work and More Religion

New York, Aug. 26 (INS)—Batter economic times are near at hand, as is a spiritual revival throughout the world, declared August Heckscher, philanthropist, today on his 84th birthday.

He advocated further immigration restrictions as a means of relieving unemployment.

The farmer, he said, would too much over-cultivated land and should resort to greater diversification of crops.

While urging governmental supervision of housing, Heckscher said that "only in the greatest emergency should the Government deal with unemployment."

3 Free Bandit From

Guard in Hospital

Winchester, Ind., Aug. 26 (INS)—A general alarm was sent out today for three gunmen who entered a hospital last night, overpowered Patrolman Thorburn who was guarding Irvin Keller, 31, wounded bandit.

In Keller's room they got the drop on Thorburn, stripped him of his belt and uniform, then ran him up. Keller donned the uniform and fled with the others in an auto.

INSTITUTE MAY BE DISSOLVED

Williamstown, Aug. 26 (INS)—A drastic change in policy, perhaps final dissolution, of the Williamstown Institute of Politics, was recommended to the board of advisers in a report at the end of the 12th annual session, by Harry A. Garfield, chairman of the institute and president of Williams College, it was revealed today.

While the quality of the present session has been quite up to that of former years, Dr. Garfield noted the decline in membership and the fact that pledges of financial support run through next year only.

"We have come, so to speak, into the upper-class years of our university course and our educational process ought to change in keeping therewith," said Dr. Garfield. "This cannot be wisely done, however, unless the institute is established upon a permanent financial basis."

DROPS DEAD AT FRIEND'S BIER

New Bedford, Aug. 26—As she knelt at the casket of a lifelong friend today, Mrs. Anna P. Fernandes, 70, of Starwich, slumped to the floor and was dead within a few minutes.

For many years, Mrs. Fernandes made a weekly visit with Mrs. Mary Nunes, 65, of Acushnet, to the nursing home. Mrs. Fernandes died yesterday and Mrs. Nunes stayed over for the funeral services.

She had been greatly affected by the death of her friend but had borne up well until her death today. Doctors pronounced death due to a heart attack.

HERE'S WHAT TO KNOW ABOUT THE ECLIPSE

New England's view of the eclipse on next Wednesday will last for more than two hours, and the nearest Boston point from where 100 per cent totality can be observed will be just east of Beverly Farms, according to Leon Campbell, Pickering Memorial astronomer at Harvard.

The first sign of the eclipse will occur at approximately 3:20 p. m., daylight time, and gradually the sun's face from the right-hand edge will be more and more hidden by the encroaching moon until about 4:30 p. m., when about half the sun's surface will be covered by the moon.

"About half the effect of the eclipse will now begin to be noted," the astronomer said.

TEMPERATURE WILL DROP
The afternoon will begin to take on a dull gray appearance and temperatures will drop as the eclipse progresses, birds will seek their nests and men and children will be more and more taken by the eclipse.

"It will be well to watch the actions of all animals during the eclipse phase of the eclipse," depending on where you are located, will begin the actual totality when the moon will entirely cover the face of the sun, and then for not more than 100 seconds at the maximum, one will be able to observe the stars and the prominences, among the grandest sights ever presented to any celestial body.

SHADOWS WILL FALL
Just before totality, from out of the northwest will hurriedly descend upon us the moon's shadow, darkening the surrounding hills and valleys for miles in width. This will be followed by the appearance of a fine fringe of broken light from the sun's edge, caused by the irregular surface of the sun, with its high mountains and deep valleys.

"This is known as Bailey's Beads. Perhaps only one bead eventually will be left and then we will get what was called in the 1925 eclipse the diamond ring effect, something not to be missed."

Immediately following the appearance of Bailey's Beads, very quickly than it takes to say it, will flash out semicircular rainbows and entirely surround the moon's dark disk, the glorious corona.

STARS WILL APPEAR
The sky will be quite dark—almost like that on a full moon night. A few bright stars will be seen as well as the familiar planets of Jupiter and Mercury—all close to the sun.

"For a brief few seconds the corona will remain visible, doubtless some prominences will be seen, presenting their bright red hues, and then in the twinkling of an eye will be gone. Bailey's Beads will as suddenly reappear, the bright western horizon will then be buried upon us, the sky will begin to lighten and in reverse process the eclipse will pass off."

It will be all over as far as New England and New Hampshire are concerned, at 5:35 p. m., daylight time.

The domestic problem is solved by sending a domestic problem solver and the best are advertised daily in the "Sun" and "Evening American."

THREE ARRESTED AFTER DOLE RIOTING

Fisher will be arrested. Police say he used the $200 for a spree.

South Boston habitation thief gets three months probation and faces loss of his job. MALDEN—Lining up with others for welfare checks to help them get through the summer, three men and women were arrested yesterday following investigation. They were charged with stealing welfare checks from the welfare office. The men were charged with stealing welfare checks from the welfare office. The women were charged with stealing welfare checks from the welfare office.

FREE-FOR-ALL FIGHT
The loud cheering of the men in the yard attracted Special Officer Thomas Brennan, attached to the welfare department, and he rushed into the yard and declared he pulled Lieberman off his perch while he was speaking.

Johnson, according to the special officer, was shouting and threatening Lieberman, and while some of the crowd were shouting "Lieberman, Lieberman," others were shouting "Johnson, Johnson." Johnson was then taken to the station and booked for assault.

Someone in the welfare department had telephoned an emergency alarm meanwhile to the St. John's station, and it was answered by Special Officer Daniel Donovan and Patrolman Walter Kenney and Edward Flanagan in the patrol wagon. They took the two prisoners to the station and booked them for assault.

One handbill seized on Special Officer Brennan in the yard said "Eight arrests being cut off the relief list. Demand the immediate relief list. Demand the immediate relief list. Demand the immediate relief list." The welfare department is cutting thousands of names off the relief list.

"FIRING CITY WORKERS"
In Boston the average rate of relief is even less than in Everett, Malden and other towns. Only a month ago they cut the scale at 10 cents a day more. They are firing city workers by the score and making us do the work instead for the few dollars of so-called relief. Now they are cutting relief again.

"At the same time we are forced to spend at a week's wage, just for the Elevated Railway Co. for useless work every day at Leverett St."

"POLITICIANS FAKERS"
The police investigation will not cut out the fakers. The fakers are the politicians. The politicians are the fakers. The fakers are the politicians. The politicians are the fakers.

The police investigation is an attempt to cover up the graft and to terrorize thousands of honest unemployed workers. Come with thousands of other unemployed to City Hall Monday, August 29, at 2 p. m. The delegates elected by unemployed workers at three meetings last night will visit the Mayor and present demands of the unemployed.

Demand the immediate stopping of Curley's police investigation. Credit for patching up the quarrel between police and welfare officials, caused by action of the latter, was given to Frank Howard Italian man for the mayor at the welfare bureau.

CURLEY TAKES HAND
There were abundant signs of continuing strained relations, however. It was Howard who reported police officials today when they returned to the welfare building to be inspected by Curley, which had been refused them yesterday.

Chairman Hecht of the over-seers had, meanwhile, promised them all assistance. Whether Mayor Curley personally brought pressure to bear, fearing that the police be given what they wanted, could not be determined, but it looked that way.

Police Commissioner Hultman's secretary, Bernard P. Scanlon, accompanied Deputy Superintendent Goode and other members of the special division of public aid investigation in the welfare building in Haverhill today to his aid yesterday.

When Hultman arrived at police headquarters earlier today, he immediately went into conference with Deputy Supt. Goode and

But, Why Worry Even if Next Eclipse Isn't Till 2017?

Freburg, Me. Aug. 26 (INS)—With the total eclipse of the sun only six days away, the principal astronomers of the world, seated from the Maine coast to points north of the St. Lawrence river, are still further today than that from deciding just when the next important total eclipse occurs in this country.

Those scientists, with a passion for facts assert that the next total eclipse visible in the United States will occur on July 9, 1943, barely 12 years from now.

Others less concerned with exactness claim the next eclipse that can be called a good substantial total eclipse visible from the United States will not occur until Aug. 21, 2017.

The Encyclopedia Britannica, in an article by Dr. J. A. Carroll, chief of the astrophysical section at Cambridge University, England, states that the next total eclipse visible from the United States will be of 27 minutes duration on Feb. 28, 1972, 47 years from now.

Dr. Charles H. Smiley of Brown University puts it, "The eclipse of 1943 and the next two total eclipses of the sun visible from the United States, on June 30, 1944, and October 2, 1945, will be visible only for a few minutes and consequently will not be favorably located in the sky for professional observation."

BRITISH BARKING OF LONGFELLOW TO AID FARMS

For the first time in nearly 300 years, the grandson of the poet Longfellow and former Harvard lecturer, has been denied entrance to England because of his Communist views, it was learned here today.

The English home office said a public announcement in regard to the case will be made today. State Department officials in Washington could not explain why Dr. Dana had been barred from England.

Dr. Dana was dismissed from Columbia University for his pacifist views during the World War. He has since been a member of the John Reed Club of Boston, a group of radical artists and writers who named the club for an American hero of the Russian revolution.

He is the son of the "Edith" of Longfellow's poem and grandson of Richard Henry Dana, author of "Two Years Before the Mast."

POLICE PROBE DEATH OF WOMAN

The mysterious death of Mrs. Julia Murphy, 42, of Belmont st., Charlestown, several hours after she was found cut and bleeding in the company of two men on the Dover st. bridge, was under investigation by police of the Athens st. station today.

Mrs. Murphy died last night at City Hospital. She was brought to the hospital by John Russo of Bridge st., Dedham, who told doctors that he was driving over the Dover st. bridge, when two men hailed him and asked him to take Mrs. Murphy to the hospital.

The two men who were with the woman on the bridge vanished after they placed her in Russo's car.

A short time later a woman who gave the name of Mrs. Nora McCarthy of Loveland court, Roxbury, appeared at City Hospital to visit Mrs. Murphy. From Mrs. McCarthy the police learned that she and the Murphy woman had been together at a house in Fellows st., Roxbury, and after leaving there had accepted the offer of a ride from two men in an automobile.

During the ride some trouble, the nature of which was not made clear, arose and the women attempted to make the men stop the automobile. When they refused Mrs. McCarthy said, the Murphy woman pushed her leg through one of the windows of the automobile.

The city of Boston, through City Treasurer Edmund L. Dolan, with the approval of Mayor Curley, has borrowed $3,000,000 in the form of a temporary loan until Oct. 7, from the First National Bank of Boston at an interest rate of 1.87 per cent, plus a 3 premium.

The Bankers Trust Company of New York offered the money at 1.98 per cent, and the Shawmut Corporation of Boston put in a bid of 2.14 per cent, so the entire loan went to the First National in a single certificate of $3,000,000. This makes a total of $31,000,000 which the city has borrowed this year in anticipation of receipts from the 1932 taxes at an average rate of 2 1/2 per cent.

Theaters Can Blame Only Selves for Loss, Says Fay Templeton

Maybe You Remember My Boots in Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway. I Recall that I was Proud of Them.

Fay Templeton today discusses the theater from the box-office angle, expressing the opinion that the price for mediocre productions is too high. Miss Templeton recalls the play "Forty-Five Minutes from Broadway," in which she starred and in which, she says, she did her last bit of real acting. Strangely enough, friends today recall the play chiefly by the boots she wore, which had 62 buttons on them.

Famous Comedienne Tells of Her Success and Says She May Do "Hot-Cha"

By FAY TEMPLETON
(This is the second of a series written by the musical comedy favorite of the past, who is now a resident of Boston.)

Lovers of the legitimate stage have often put the question to me:

"Do you think the stage will come back?"

My reply has always been, and is today, that the stage has never gone away.

The principal reason for the decline in box-office receipts at legitimate theaters is the price demanded for productions that are below standard.

And certainly the theater-goer cannot be blamed for passing such houses by when, for one-third the price, he may get around the corner and see a first-class motion picture production.

Another reason lies in the production itself. The American public demands value in amusements just as they do in merchandise. And if the producers stage a good show—at prices within reason—they'll do plenty of business.

"Twas Real Acting

Boston particularly, has always given liberal patronage in those theaters that have taken pains to give a fair measure of amusement in return. Here, one is remembered mostly for one's activities and, of course, I have done little of that. Probably my last bit of acting was in "45 Minutes from Broadway." That was acting, as I say, but I've never been able to convince any of my friends that it was.

Almost invariably when I meet persons who saw me in that production they laugh outright and exclaim:

"Oh, yes indeed, I remember when you wore the high buttoned boots!"

"Might Learn Hot-Cha

Maybe you remember those boots, too. They had 62 buttons on them and I recall I was very proud of them. Well, that's all that most folks remember of my part in that popular piece. Funny how the seemingly insignificant things endure when everything else fades from memory.

Well, anyway, it's nice to be remembered at all and, since I've come to Boston I've been quite flattered by the number of people who, without coddling their brains too severely, recall many of my old songs. "Mary Is a Grand Old Name," "Rolie," "An Intimate Friend of an Intimate Friend," the latter written for me by dear old Wilton Luckey.

But I'm not so conceited by my successes of other days, as to believe that those old favorites would stand the test of popularity today. The young folks might listen to them politely, but they'd soon be wearied and wish for—what, is it they call the new stuff—"hotcha?"

Well, maybe I could learn that, too. Come to think of it, I believe I'll give it a try. It will give me something to do and I always did like occupation. I'm a lovely lady, but when I work—WORK! So look up, you cronies and hotcha people!

And that reminds me I might tell you sometime about my impressions of the radio business, the studio workers, stars and other things. (Another article by Miss Templeton will appear tomorrow.)

INNER RETURNS FROM CRUISE

Ending the second of two Boston-Canadian North Cape-Bermuda cruises, sponsored by the National Tours of New York, the Cunard-Anchor liner, the California, docked at East Boston. The trip from here, which took the big liner to Halifax, the Sequeoy and St. Lawrence rivers to Quebec, thence to Bermuda, occupied 12 1/2 days and was marked by fine weather throughout, and a round of entertainment for the 800 passengers.

Prominent among those who made the cruise were Chief Henry A. Fox, head of the fire-fighting forces of the Boston fire department, with Mrs. Fox; Judge Daniel T. O'Connell of the Massachusetts Superior Court; John Gillespie, manager of the Boston City Club; Edith and Gertrude Donahue of Lowell; the Misses Margaret Kelly, Dorothy Sullivan and Helen Kennedy of Haverhill, and Dr. Simon F. Curran of Dorester. Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie were awarded first prizes at the Wednesday night masquerade, for wearing the most original costume, and the Donahue sisters won second and third, respectively.

DEAD WOMAN'S PURSE STOLEN

What police have described as one of the most despicable thefts on record—the larceny of a dead woman's pocketbook—may be responsible for the burial of a well-dressed and apparently refined woman, killed by an automobile in the South End Wednesday night.

Today the body of the woman lay in the morgue at City Hospital, unclaimed and unidentified. All hopes of immediately determining her identity vanished when a sneak thief, present at the scene of the accident, took advantage of the excitement and stole the pocketbook while police and others were aiding the victim.

The accident happened while the woman was crossing Columbia ave.

Hull Gala Day Promises to Be Best in History of Town

Hull Gala Day—bigger and better than ever before, and with many attractions for children as well as grown-ups, takes place tomorrow, with the annual ball tonight at Pemberton Inn giving the festive spirit a head start.

The big day will be a 12-hour affair, attractions being scheduled morning, afternoon and evening, starting with junior running races at the Bayville playground in the morning.

GAMES FOR CHILDREN

Children from the smallest up to 14 years will compete in the junior events, and besides the track competition, there will be pony rides and a show by clown and Punch and Judy.

At Bayville Theater, children will be guests at "talkie" comedies at 1.30. There also will be five junior baseball games.

John W. Fitzgerald, Jr., is chairman of the baseball committee, and is bringing the Bayville team and Weymouth together for the big senior game at Bayville at 3 p. m.

FIREWORKS AT NIGHT

Tennis and golf competition, band concerts afternoon and evening, dancing also in the afternoon and evening at the Bayville playground, and fireworks at 9 p. m. are among the other features.

Among those on the committee are Mayor Curley, W. T. A. Fitzgerald, who is president of the Gala Day Association; Joseph P. Sheen, in John J. Curley, Charles J. Fox, Judge Daniel T. O'Connell, John J. Terry, Joseph A. Conway, W. H. Brine, Hull town officials and other prominent Boston residents.

True to Type RUNNING FOR OFFICE NOT REALLY GOOD FOR THE MIND By GILBERT SELDES

It is never quite fair to compare the mind of a politician with the mind of an engineer, and if I quote Vice-President Curtis it is not because his remarks are peculiarly dull-witted or deceptive; he is simply a man running for office, and a man running for office will say anything. Mr. Lloyd George, after having been a statesman, ran for office and promised to hang the Kaiser and to make England a land fit for heroes to live in. He was elected. Mr. Curtis may not be elected, but he serves the purpose of illuminating the political mind when he says that "there were 100,000 paid admissions to the opening day" of the Olympic Games and adds, "that's certainly not depression." The trained mind could only say that that's certainly not depression for 100,000 individuals; but Mr. Curtis says that "prosperity is on the way back." Perhaps he would tell us from where.

Ten Years' Work

On the same day a group of engineers, directed by Mr. Howard Scott, made public the first results of a 10-year survey of American industry. These men are not expecting anything in November and what they say is not precisely in harmony with the rosy hopes of Mr. Curtis. They allow the possibility of a revival; they think that unemployment may reach the dreadful figure of 20,000,000; they are skeptical of the five-day work, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and most schemes of inflation. They say the public "has realized that none of its leaders of the past is equipped with adequate knowledge to cope with the present dilemma." Their ultimate prediction is that the "prize system" is finished and as Socialism, Communism and Fascism are all equally unsatisfactory, the solution of our difficulties must be "worked out along purely scientific lines by men with the engineer's outlook."

Paying for Relics

I haven't often found the columns of a newspaper as interesting and stimulating as this report of the engineers. The examples they give bring you up short with a tremendous shock. They are discussing the changes which practical science has made in the habits of industry and say: "The first Curtis turbine built by General Electric for the Insull interests in Chicago in about 1903 was withdrawn in September, 1908, in perfect working order, and now stands in the General Electric yards as a relic. That obsolete turbine is still being paid for in Insull bonds." For half a century we have all been Frankensteinists and we are now facing the grim monster we have created. The monster has its financial side, for "the total debt claim against the physical equipment of all American industry has risen to the fantastic figure of $218,000,000,000—a debt claim on prosperity." No wonder some of us are hard pressed.

Buggy-Riding Statesmen

These engineers offer no instant plan for prosperity, which is something of a relief, the politicians do which is their business. The prospect to which the engineers invite us is gloomy, but the only desperate item lies outside their province. It is that the politicians haven't even heard of the scientists and will not want to hear of them. The politicians were brought up in an era when you bought a buggy to last for 15 years and built a house to last a lifetime; they haven't begun to live in the era we have created when it is a social sin to run a car of a model more than a year old when things are made to be worn out or discarded after two years when entire factories grow out of date and actually wasteful because new methods and new machines are created. They are as Major Douglas and his followers say, working on the economics of scarcity in an era of plenty.

Blind Businessmen

It would be a happy thing if our industrialists were more aware of what they themselves are doing; but I see few signs of it. They employ vast researches, they put up new buildings and install the latest machinery; but they hardly consider the total effect of what they are doing. Slowly and reluctantly they arrived at the knowledge that high wages and short working hours do not destroy industry; that the worker-consumer has to have money to spend in order to keep the capitalist-manufacturer in funds. But the idea that the whole haphazard method of making things and selling things has been changing seems foreign to them. Like politicians in power, they want only to be kept in power, and when they find themselves suddenly victorious on their faces by a financial earthquake they are willing to say that it was an act of God, and that they themselves, having done what everybody has done for a hundred years, are innocent victims. Their ignorance of the laws of economics is no excuse.

JEFFERSON AND HAMILTON BOOK SHOWS HOW TWO LEADERS DIFFERED

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

THE PUBLISHERS SEEM to be all set to clean up on the coming election. I have already spoken of L. C. Page Co.'s peppy book on "The Sons of the Wild Jacks." Another, probably equally peppy, although I have not read it, is H. L. Menckens' little volume called "Making a President" (Knopf). A play-by-play account of the two conventions with philosophical interpretation by one of the two men left in the United States who has an 18th century mind. The other is also the author of a political book, Representative James M. Berke writing on "Our Wonderful of Bureaucracy" (Macmillan). A careful and documented exposure of the socialist waste in our government. Then there is to be a new installment of "The Washington Merry-Go-Round" containing the inside story of some important scandals. All of which ought to make the citizen just mad enough to vote—which is the man thing, after this fall has been so bad.

But the book which the voter needs most this fall has to do with principles and not with mere contemporaries. It is a Boston book, entitled "Jeffersonian Principles and Hamiltonian Principles" and is issued by Little Brown & Co. It is by James Truslow Adams, author of "The Epic of America" and other interesting studies of history in the United States today. The book is really two books, a volume containing extracts from Jefferson's most important utterances and writings and a volume bound with it doing a similar service for Hamilton. Each part contains a brief and helpful foreword by Mr. Adams.

Mixing Jefferson and Hamilton

The book is important because it looks at the campaign of 1800 to be fought on the old, old division of principles. We talk of Jefferson and Hamilton, but when of us really know what each stood for? A recent writer in Harper's Magazine has said the question that most of what passes for Jeffersonism is what he was against and not what he was for. That is the essential difference of Jefferson and Hamilton. Jefferson was a reformer, while Hamilton was a conservative and a system from Jackson. So says the Harper's writer. Mr. Adams suggests, however, that the Jeffersonism of today is really taken up by former Hamiltonians. "Not only would they have discarded Hamiltonian centralization in favor of a more democratic system, but they are all for Jeffersonism, fewer taxes, and all that."

But it is interesting to see what Mr. Adams has to say about the true milk of the word in his introductory matter.

In Jefferson's political thinking, the fundamental postulate was his belief in the latent honesty and ability of the average man, of man as man, regardless of social position, education, wealth or other opportunities. . . . It must not be thought, however, in spite of the uttering generalities of the Declaration of Independence, that Jefferson was a radical. He was a moderate. His principles, exhibited these qualities sufficiently to make them capable of the utilitarian system he conceived as best for them when at their best themselves. . . . He prophesied that the whole of America be filled up and the people turned from an aristocracy to a republic. . . . He never enunciated the belief that under any and all circumstances the people (the voice of the people) must and ought to be used (the voice of God).

It was this belief in the inherent capacity of man as man to be under right conditions rational and self-wielding creature that led him to certain other beliefs.

Jefferson Really a Philosopher

The belief in the necessity of education and the necessity of religious tolerance were the two most important. Public education in America is Jeffersonian, and the strongly increasing belief that one may be a good citizen without being a Christian is also Jeffersonian. In short, Jefferson was a philosopher. The headings in Mr. Adams' book show this. They cover only three main heads: political principles and practices, education and religion and the art of living.

The heads under the art of living in Hamilton are many more and much more specific, for Hamilton was not so much a philosopher as a man of affairs. Jefferson was both. The federal government on Hamilton deals with: government, the people, the federal government, the state government, the President, the legislature, the judiciary, agriculture, commerce and many others, the national debt, the tariff, and the bank. Many of the extracts, of course, are from "The Federalist," the greatest piece of political writing in American history. The writer says:

"Hamilton's fundamental idea was that of the common man. He believed that the great majority of men were incapable of self-government, due to ignorance, selfishness, absence of self-control and other qualities—or lack of them. . . . He did not trust his distrust to the common man. He distrusted human nature itself and believed that the spirit of action which could most safely be counted upon was self-interest."

Privately—not publicly—he wrote:

"Your People, sir, as a great beast."

Two Men Radically Different

He would not have been at all surprised at the rapidly mounting evidence of fraud in our welfare distribution. He would have foreseen it and in that he was right. Without Jefferson the new country. His terms of thought were not "liberty, freedom, education, tolerance," but "national wealth, power, law, order, stability." He was sure in his own mind that power could be best trusted to the well-to-do, to those with property and responsibility.

"Look through the eyes of the poor of the community; the learned and ignorant. . . . Where does virtue predominate? The difference indeed consists, not in the quantity, but kind of virtues, which are incident to the various classes; and here the advantage of character belongs to the wealthy. . . . The rich are probably more favorable to the property of the state than those of the indigent and partake less of moral depravity."

By that I gather he believed that drinking and gambling were lesser vices among the rich than the poor and bring in more revenue to the state. Again he seemed to be in tune with the times.

Mr. Adams sums the two men up in interesting fashion.

"Hamilton was a realist. . . . It may be that without a vision man shall die. It is no less true that without hard, practical sense they shall die. Without Jefferson the new country might have lost its soul. Without Hamilton it would assuredly have been killed in body. . . . Hamilton's idea was to build a strong Ship of State. Jefferson was thinking in terms of the welfare of the crew. We needed both men then. We need the element of thought which each contributed to American life—but we have to compare their conflicting philosophies into a more sane whole."

Two Men Radically Different

He would not have been at all surprised at the rapidly mounting evidence of fraud in our welfare distribution. He would have foreseen it and in that he was right. Without Jefferson the new country. His terms of thought were not "liberty, freedom, education, tolerance," but "national wealth, power, law, order, stability." He was sure in his own mind that power could be best trusted to the well-to-do, to those with property and responsibility.

GOING DOWN! Four youths stumbled into a ditch in Cambridge at night, early today, and when they finally gained the surface again they were in Lowell House of Harvard University, a half-mile distant, facing a squad of police with drawn guns.

It might have been a scene from one of the Marx brothers comedies as only four boys, the Marx brothers, they were even brothers.

They were Francis O'Connor, 20, of 12 St. John St.; Edward McDonough, 19, of 12 St. John St.; and two others, who were lost in the ditch in Cambridge and Donald Carter, 19, of 12 Campbell St. Somerville.

They were found by a patrolman who heard them and called at the Harvard Y. Police officers, who were called at the Harvard Y. Police officers, who were called at the Harvard Y.

VALENTINE

An Exciting Story of Modern Love
By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

Val never forgave Mr. Clarkson for going around telling the other neighbors that Aunt Julia had said she was glad boys didn't come to care for her niece, and that she didn't worry about Joe Carey tagging after her, because he was such a nice fellow. It didn't matter.

The Story So Far

Valentine Macfarlane is the shy, dreamy daughter of Millie Macfarlane, a widow, whose gay, romantic nature is not spoiled by poverty. Millie has numerous new acquaintances, but best of all her daughter likes Jim Atkinson, the sea captain. Millie finally agrees to wed Atkinson and little Val is taken to her Aunt Julia's. Millie stays in the Orient and meets new romance. Val chafes at Aunt Julia's restraint.

Now Go On With the Story

"Evening, Miss Macfarlane! Evening, Val!"

"The neighbors, out in front gardens, watering lawns, or just sitting on the front steps because it was such a balmy, summery night, all had a friendly greeting as Val and her aunt went by. Everybody liked Aunt Julia. Everybody knew how good she had been to her folks, supporting her mother after her father died, then nursing the bed-ridden old lady for years."

"The way she had saved at her dressing to buy the lace and insurance to teach her handsome brother helping and all that when she had got the insurance after the old lady died, and she could have had a little freedom after her brother had to die, and she and her mother had to live."

"But they liked Val, too. A good girl!"

"Val and I have great old times together," Miss Macfarlane was accustomed to boast, innocently, and kissing Val on the cheek. "We go to the movies every Friday, and get one ice cream soda afterwards. Y'alls like it, don't you?"

"Val didn't want to be like Aunt Julia. She wanted to be like Miss Macfarlane. She wanted to be like Miss Macfarlane. She wanted to be like Miss Macfarlane."

"Val never forgave her for that, not for going around telling the other neighbors that Miss Macfarlane and she was glad boys didn't come to care for her niece, and she didn't worry about Joe Carey tagging after her, because he was such a nice fellow. It didn't matter."

"Oh Yeah? BUT SCIENCE SAYS O.G. IS THE BEST CIGARETTE"

NO MATTER how high you climb, or how far you go... you can't lose the cigarette ads.

Each brand never stops trailing you in its pleasant effort to win you over.

For our part, we say: "If you enjoy the brand you're smoking, STICK TO IT. All modern cigarettes are good."

On the other hand, if you truly want to know the cigarette of finest quality, let's dismiss the usual cigarette claims... and look for evidence!

Here's the impartial testimony of Science:

In 75 laboratory cigarette tests,* checked and verified by scientists of two leading universities, OLD GOLD was found to be the coolest and throat-easiest cigarette.

OLD GOLD won these tests because it is made of the PUREST and choicest tobacco... free of all hot-burning flavorings. That's the "why" of "not a cough in a carload."

The why of O. G.'s greater taste appeal and throat-ease.

AUTUMN FLOWERS IN SHADES OF GOLD AND BROWN will brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Hills at Rust Cord, Martins lane, Hingham, when they present their debutante daughter, Miss Ernestine, at a tea-dance on Friday afternoon, September 9.

Ernestine is the first debutante of the month and a smart guest list will motor along the South Shore roads to meet the charming girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Hills are to be seen wherever musical circles meet. They are both musicians and Mr. Hills sings divinely, we hear.

He is also very much in the fore in Harvard alumni affairs. He is a '97 man.

The Hills reside in Brookline in the winter and no doubt other events for their daughter are on the cards.

Barrett Wendells in Wyoming

NOT EVERYONE IS LIVING A LIFE OF LEISURE THIS summer. From Chicago we hear that Mrs. Barrett Wendell, who has been holding down a job in St. Louis, department store among the antique furnishings, has left for her first breathing spell this season. She and Mr. Wendell are at the Diamond G Ranch in Wyoming for two weeks of riding and trout fishing and rest.

At present in preparation for another busy season in her interesting position.

Her friend and former employer, Frances Poston, who has been in hard work, has been at the head of the Four Seasons Shop in the World City. She has been at the head of the shop since it was opened in New York and has been at the head of the shop since it was opened in New York.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

According to a Columbia University professor, "The expert seems to have had comparatively little influence on practical politics in America."

Which is probably one of the reasons why practical politics is still so practical.

A CORRECTION:
(Lamb, Mo. Democrat)
In the statement I had in Wednesday's Daily, which was written hurriedly, I used those words, "While I realize the liquor question is agitating the minds of the voters both wet and dry I can see no reason for making it an issue in this campaign." What I really intended to say was this: "While I realize the liquor question is agitating the minds of the voters both wet and dry and is an issue in this campaign, I can see no reason for making it the main issue in the election of representative."

TEST YOUR INTUITION

Today we take you for a little tour behind the scenes of "winning land." Haven't you often wondered how those old-time wonderful storm effects, with the wind howling, the thunder roaring and so on? Of course you have—none of us is perfect. Well, it's all done by G. Humphreys, Steve, shown above with the State Superintending Storm-Producing Contraband. Unfortunately, we cannot tell you exactly how it is done because nobody knows how Humphreys does it. As a matter of fact, nobody has yet been able to figure out why he does it. But we can all guess. The contest closes nine months from today. Send in your solution early.
